“ Growing up around Randy was an enjoyable time filled with fun and memorable experiences. Our neighborhood was overflowing with kids and many ways to occupy one's time. The end of our court was where many hours of kickball, scatterball, dodgeball, and hide and go seek were played; with Randy in the middle of it all. Randy loved to be outdoors and engaged with whatever was being played, and like the rest of us, resisted the calls to go home once darkness settled in.

We all mowed lawns, raked leaves, and shoveled snow to earn extra spending money, but Randy was always one step ahead of us by using his ingenuity and creativity to also sweep the parking lots of local businesses. He was also a big help at home by doing his chores.

Though I haven't seen Randy since the early '80s, he occasionally came to mind and was mentioned in conversation regarding the good old days.

Rest easy, my friend. We all strive for the blessing to enter God's Kingdom when our time to meet him arrives. I know without question that Randy has found that comfort.

God bless the Browning family,
